RootBeer Report

The progress of the project is going well. Over the years of the project's life span, we had 28 contributors with 16+ of the source files still getting modified.

The graph plots the source files and contributors who touched on it over the years. Usually utility files get tweaked. Engineers being Scott Alexander-Brown (green) and Mathew Rollings (brown) keeping the project alive. Engineers pink and blue though have not shown much collaboration in the project, need to reassess their involvement. To gather more information on the project Rootbeer, go to the repo https://github.com/CrawlLaws/repo_mining.